Proposal type	Details
	Regulatory Impact Statement (RIS processes) were undertaken on the Tasmanian Container Deposit Scheme (CDS) and the Northern Territory CDS in 2021 and 2013 respectively. The Australian Government's Office of Impact Analysis (OIA) confirmed the Tasmanian RIS was compliant with the requirements of the Regulatory Impact Analysis Guide for Ministerial Councils and National Standard Setting Bodies (June 2021). Similarly, the OIA confirmed the Northern Territory RIS was sufficient for the purposes of seeking the permanent exemption. The RISs did not identify any adverse impacts for Queensland.
Regulatory proposals where no RIA is required	As these RIS processes were comparable to the requirements of The Queensland Government Better Regulation Policy , no further regulatory impact analysis was required.
	The Tasmanian RIS is available at:

	The Northern Territory RIS is available at:

^{*}Refer to The Queensland Government Better Regulation Policy for regulatory proposals not requiring regulatory impact analysis (for example, public sector management, changes to existing criminal laws, taxation).
